4 Persons Injured In Traffic Mishaps

DPS troopers reported four accidents over the weekend with four injured and heavy property damage, including a service station in Rockdale.

The accidents were investigated by DPS troopers Jerry Benson and Don Wardlow, both of Rockdale.

Saturday afternoon a tractor - trailer truck went out of control and plowed into Stevens Service Station at Highway 79 and Calhoun St. in Rockdale. The truck hit the west side of the station, completely destroying the office and restrooms.

A woman in the station, Mrs. Gary J. Hawkins of Rockdale, was injured and is in Scott and White Hospital at Temple suffering several fractures.

The truck also struck a car and a pickup before hitting the station.

A one-car accident was investigated at 4:30 a.m. Monday five miles west of Cameron on SH 36. The car was traveling east toward Cameron when the driver, Jerry Cooper of Ft. Hood, went to sleep. The car hit a culvert. Cooper and a passenger in the car, James Thompson of Houston, both were admitted to St. Edward Hospital for treatment of facial cuts.

Monday at 5 p.m. a gasoline transport truck overturned west of Rockdale on Highway 79, spilling gasoline on the highway. Driver of the truck, Harold Riley of Floresville, was not injured.

The accident occurred when a car driven by William Gilchrist of West attempted a left turn and in the process the truck went out of control.

Officers investigated another accident at 4 a.m. Tuesday two miles west of Cameron on Highway 36. A Ft. Hood soldier, Jimmy Lee Moore went to sleep at the wheel and the car left the road and hit a fence. He was taken to the VA hospital in Temple by Green ambulance and was believed to have a neck injury.

The wise thing for President Nixon is to resign. In the abandonment of his support, most of the Minority leadership in Congress has cut the White House loose.

The Majority party has said little the past few weeks.

Impeachment in the House is a foregone conclusion and conviction in the Senate is about as likely as Tuesday when conviction there would have been certain.

Cameron area got about an inch of moisture at mid-week,not a gusher, but considerable help in an otherwise dry year. The drought conditions in much of North and West Texas on into Oklahoma, Kansas and Iowa are reminiscent of the dust bowl days of the 1930s.

Then , things were so dry in that part of the country that people burned off their lawns to avoid fires around houses and garages.

Air conditioning meant a light breeze, so people left windows open.

Dust was so common at times during the night that sand would sift through screen doors, piling up a couple of feet deep inside.

Water rationing was necessary. Creeks dried up and everything seemed drier than tinder.

It is difficult to conceive in the 1970s that this country could still know such conditions. So many lakes have been built in the Southwest since those days and deep wells have been drilled, it would seem only memory.

But the lakes dry up and well water levels recede. And it is the same all over again, the same question for the Southwesterners:

"When is it going to rain?"

Man Pinned Under Tractor For Three Hours

A Milam man was released from a local hospital Sunday after being admitted Saturday following a freak accident on his farm near Pettibone.

Charles Moats was injured when his tractor flipped over and pinned him underneath while he was cleaning out a stock tank on the farm. He was pinned in deep mud for three hours before his wife found him and called the sheriff.

A wrecker was called to remove the tractor before rescue could be attempted.

Council Eyes Yule Decorations

Christmas decorations in August? That's what the city council debated at a regular meeting Tuesday evening, after presentation of a proposition from the Chamber of Commerce.

Jim Lafferty represented the Chamber of Commerce and explained about decorations for the mall which would be available at a one-time cost of $2,500 for outright purchase, or $850 a year for a least agreement.

The decorations proposed would consist of 16 four-foot Christmas trees for light pole decorations on the mall and 15 - foot lighted Santa Claus.

Lafferty said the Chamber could not afford to buy the decorations but would help with installation and storage. Lafferty, speaking for the Chamber, said downtown merchants don't want to pay for decorations as they did in the past.

Council referred the question to the city planning commission for a recommendation at the next council meeting.

In other business, the council heard Darrell Johnson and Steve Harrison, of Brady and Associates of Fort Worth which is an engineering firm, report on a search through their files for engineering and surveys which were done for the Green Addition. The surveys and drain project were authorized by the city some years ago but were never completed.

Engineering and drainage surveys are needed for the proposed paving of streets in the area, including North Harding which has pretty well been promised by the city when all money for the paving is collected.

Johnson said they would search the files for information needed for the project.

Council heard A. W. McCullin explaining that property in the extended urban renewal program will be dedicated to the city upon completion of the project, but that no building can be put on the property unless it is purchased by the city.

The city already owns some of the property and councilmen felt that, with the additional purchase of one lot, there would be enough space for an exposition building. The area dedicated to the city would be for public reuse.

Council authorized the city attorney to draw up a lease agreement for use of the park maintainer's own pickup at a rate of $50 a month. Mayor Gene Blake said the pickup is needed to transport equipment from the parks, cemetery and airpark.

Works Supt. Bill Dase was instructed to proceed with street markings according to plans set out by the Texas Highway Department. These will be marked within the urban renewal project boundary.

The mayor presented a check for $25 to Felix Matula for volunteer firemen. The check was sent by Jim Majors with thanks for putting out a fire on his place.

Department heads were reminded to work on their budgets for the coming year and have them ready for discussion by Sept. 1.

Library Friends Drive Continues

Friends of the Library continues its membership drive this week following an open house Tuesday with an exhibit of local arts and crafts on display.

Friends also plans a story hour for children Thursday at 11 a.m.

COG Manpower Program Gets Training Funds

The Central Texas Manpower Consortium, operated by Central Texas COG, has received $885,690 from the U. S. Labor Department's Manpower Administration to finance job training for some 638 unskilled workers.

This is the first grant to the five-county consortium under Title I of the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training act (CETA) which became effective July1. Under CETA block grants of federal special revenue sharing funds are made available to approved prime sponsors to finance locally originated and administered manpower programs.

The Central Texas Manpower Consortium is comprised of Hamilton, Lampasas, Milam, Mills and San Saba Counties.

CETA funds may be used for such programs as classroom skill training, on-the-job training, basic education, counseling, job development, and job placement as well as creating transitional public service employment opportunities.

The Central Texas program will emphasize work experience, on-the-job training, and classroom training. Beneficiaries will be youths, Mexican American adults, ex-offenders, and Vietnam veterans.

Information about enrolling may be obtained from: Patricia Stroup-CTCOG; P. O. Box 570, Cameron, Texas 76520 -- or 697-6894.

China Poised To Enter World Oil Stakes With Record Tons

By Jonathan Sharp

Reuter - China is poised to enter the world oil stakes at a gallop, held back only a lack of technology, capital--and proud reluctance to let other countries supply it.

Premier Chou En-Lai made the oil world sit up when he told Japanese foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira last January, according to reports, that China's oil output was a record 50 million tons.

This was at least 10 million tons more than estimated western experts and placed China 11th among the world's oil-producing nations. It was also a striking 150 percent leap from the 20 million tons produced in 1970.

In world terms 50 million tons is not all that much, about enough to supply the United States for 40 days at its present rate of consumption.

But many non-Chinese experts are convinced China is sitting on enough untapped oil to have an impact on a society where 80 per cent of the people live on the land and carts are pulled by donkeys are still a common sight in the streets of the capital.

There is also enough to enable China, if it wishes, to play more than a spectator's role in the tangled arena of international oil politics.

At present the Chinese are keeping very quiet about their oil intentions.

In Taching, China's biggest oilfield producing over one-third of the nation's entire output, officials cheerfully reel off statistics about how well side industries, run by housewives are doing--including how many million buttons are turned out by a local clothing-repair shop. But they will not say exactly how much oil is produced at the guarded site less than 250 miles from the Sino-Soviet border.

"These figures have never been made public in China." is the stock response to queries.

What officials here will disclose is the rate of expansion, which is an average of 31 percent per year since the oil field opened in 1960.

This average is bound to be improved on this year, since output has already risen by 26 per cent in the first six months of 1974 compared with the same period last year.

For over 10 years China has been basically self-sufficient in oil and has been slowly expanding its exports. Such allies as North Korea and North Vietnam have been receiving undisclosed amounts for years.

Japan, Hong Kong and Thailand are also buying Chinese oil or oil products and are recently a Philippines oil delegation visited Peking for talks.

But this is small stuff compared with the potential for the future. According to Christopher Phillips, who led an American trade delegation here last November, China could be exporting a billion dollars worth of high grade oil within five years, and two billion dollars worth in 10 years.

To put these figures in perspective the total value of China's foreign trade last year, exports and imports, was less than 8.5 billion dollars.

To whom China chooses to sell its oil is as much a political question as a commercial one. But qualified observers believe it could well choose to cement relations with its neighbor Japan, by becoming a major supplier of oil to that country.

During the recent oil crisis China feared that Japan, forced to look around for oil supplies outside the Middle East, would be obliged to enter into an agreement with the Soviet Union for the joint development of Siberian oil resources.

This was disagreeable to China since it would probably involve the construction of a pipeline near the touchy Sino-Soviet border-a pipeline which could conceivably have strategic uses.

Last year China sold only about one million tons of oil to Japan. This year the figure soared to five million tons-still a drop in the oil barrel considering Japan's needs.

But Japanese sources are confident that there will be a striking increase in oil trade, possibly up to 25 million tons in three to five years.

Cassette Records Due For Blind, Handicapped

Four Texas foundations have pledged a total of $175,000 to a program to convert open-reel recordings of books to cassette recordings for use by blind and physically handicapped persons. The conversion, which will cost about $300,000, will be carried out by the Texas State Library's Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

The Moody Foundation, the Sid Richardson Foundation and the George Brown Foundation have each pledged $50,000 while the Houston Endowment, Inc. has pledged $25,000.

Conversion of materials available on open-reel tape will make them available in cassette form form for persons with physical handicaps that make them eligible for the service.

"Not only is the cassette tape more convenient for these persons to use." said Donald K. Bailey, director of the Division for the Blind and Physically Hnadicapped,"but also the Library of Congress makes available cassette players for its patrons."

The tremendous popularity of Talking Books, materials recorded on phonograph disks, indicated a need for the spoken material. Not only is use of this material most suitable for persons with physical handicaps that prevent their using ordinary printed material, but it is also the media most used by persons who have lost their vision as adults and do not read Braille.

Irrevocable?

Mr. Nixon apparently plans to remain in office following his revelation of information withheld from his attorneys and the public. He acknowledged this Monday.

Is this decision now "irrevocable"?

It would seem this acknowledgment by the President further divides support in Congress and particularly in the Senate where any House impeachment decision will be tried.

Your Herald reruns an editorial of May 13 which backgrounds this afternative to impeachment and trial for Mr. Nixon, noting that West Germany's Brandt stepped aside under crisis.

FML

Is Nixon Next?...

West Germany's Brandt's decision to resign may be studied by President Nixon during the heat of talking about what is on those "other" tapes.

Partisanship is melding into insitutional rebellion in church, GOP and newspaper ranks even as GOP Senate Minority leader Scott called the released tape transcripts "immoral" and broke with the White House.

What mitigates this is not Mr. Nixon's future, which he has apparently decided technically is beyond criminal involvement, but what happens to the presidency.

Absolute access to everything in the White House would open the presidency wider than it should be revealed. No leader, no administrator, no intellectual, no general, no one in authority can make the decisions of enormous moment in a goldfish bowl. He must be trusted to do his best.

If that is where the presidency is taken, the job should be reduced to committee directorship, a super cabinet, a two-out-of-three decision. But the focal leadership of both major parties would be redirected into a mish-mash; the symbol of central government might well be reduced to a father figure, Hindenburg-like before the Reichstag burned.

The troubles of multiple leadership are compounded for example in the Politboro, where Brezhnev and Kosygin apparently share equal status with separate titles. But in fact, one is the stronger and actual leader. If communist party control were not unilateral, in practice, as opposed to multiple in theory and in organization charts, the Politboro, the Soviet Praesidium, the communist party and Russia would not function.

The U. S. Senate is outlining limits of the presidency. And this is perhaps proper. The incumbent and his two predecessors and several other major contenders all have been senators.

It would suggest the Senate is perhaps not the best training ground for presidents, simply because the presidency did not get this powerful and baroque just in Mr. Nixon's time. Perhaps the clubby atmosphere of the U. S. Senate has contributed to the closely held presidential powers of Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon. And who is to say the martyred John Kennedy didn't operate a closed shop in the justice department by appointing his brother attorney general and in effect being his own secretary of state.

Jack Anderson, writer of Washington Merry-Go-Round, on a TV talk show the other night said he felt that Harry Truman appeared to grow in personal stature in the White House, and he appeared to Anderson to be the only one. And Truman was a product of the Prendergast era in Kansas City and a senator. A man of the people, Truman perhaps had more stature to gain in terms of statesmanship.

No, Mr. Nixon is not the sole architect of insular, elected presidential power. He is his own worst advocate in these transcripts and incredibly blind to the difference between presidential loyalty and loyalty to the presidency. All his subordinates are guilty there.

A vote for impeachment will come in mid-July, House officials advise. And a trial by fall may develop before Mr. Nixon's former peers in the Senate.

He gambles they won't convict by putting together 67 votes out of 100 (all being present). In the meantime, he may make the same decision Brandt came upon, that it is time to step down.

The constitutional process continues, which, by the way, says nothing about partisan political parties.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear Editor:

A lot of people have critized the postal service over the past couple of years, mainly cecause it's worse now than it was 25 years ago, and I have been wondering how this affected the managers of the system in Washington. What was their reaction?

Well, I was flipping through a magazine the other day and ran across a page ad from the postal service, and while it didn't mention much about service it did point out that lots of new things are happening in the organization, prominent among which were plans for some interesting new stamps.

Now this may sound frivolous to some but that's because they haven't figured out, as I believe I have, what's behind it.

You know, the postal service people have used stamps with pictures of George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, Calvin Cooledge, Teddy Roosevelt, Franklin Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt, Eisenhower, other historic people and places, but they never have found a picture to go on a stamp that'll get a letter to where it's going on time.

This is not to say the post office has given up. On the contrary, I believe it's searching night and day, so long as no overtime is involved and all holidays are observed, to find the right picture and we should all lay off and see if those folks can come up with it. In the mean time if any of the readers of the Cameron Herald have any suggestions for such a picture, send them in. The first guy that suggests a tortoise has to stand in the corner.

Just to change the subject, would you say some people in high places have forgotten that old saying, "No use lying over spilt milk"?

And also, I notice a lot of people in Washington are saying politicians need a new code of ethics. They're right, The one they've got is too hard to live up to.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Dateline Austin

Legislators Propose New Approaches

When the Constitutional Convention collapsed in total failure, state legislators immediately began proposing new approaches to the long-thwarted revision effort.

A wide range of alternatives are available, and lawmakers are committed to try all of them. These suggestions already have been offered:

— Creation of a brand new Constitutional Convention, with plain citizens rather than legislators occupying most of the delegate seats.

— Submission to voters of the basic revision document drafted by the 1974 convention, without the controversial separate submission proposals (like right-to-work) which deadlocked this year's session.

— An article-by-article revision, based largely on work of the convention.

— Submission of the document originally prepared by the 37-member Constitutional Revision Commission as a guide to the convention.

— If all else fails, consideration of a cleaned-up and slimmed-down version of the 1876 constitution stripped of outmoded provisions.

While the 1974 convention ran out the clock without accomplishing anything, hope remains lawmakers will have learned some lessons and that more than a year of research and expenditure of $3.2 million will not be a total loss.

NO SPECIAL SESSION — Gov. Dolph Briscoe rejected requests for a special legislative session on state employee pay raises and supplementary school financial aid.

He said a special session at the tag end of an exhausting Constitutional Convention would not be practical, and the most pressing problems can be met by emergency action in the next regular legislative session.

Specifically, Briscoe committed himself to these emergency goals in 1975, which will cost approximately $216 million in general revenue:

— A 10 per cent cost of living pay raise for all state employees effective Feb. 1, 1975. (Legislative Budget Board has recommended $285 million in pay and fringe benefit increases for state employees during the 1976-77 fiscal period).

— An increase of $40 per student in average daily attendance for maintenance and operation of public schools, with distribution arranged to benefit "poor" districts most.

— A 15 per cent increase in benefits of teachers who retired before March 31, 1969, and a 10 per cent increase for those who retired between that time and May 31, 1971.

— A 10 per cent increase in retirement benefits for state employees who retire before August 31, 1974.

AUTO HEARING SET — The annual auto insurance rate hearing has been scheduled for October 1.

The State Board of Insurance will conduct the hearing for new rates to become effective December 1.

While the hearing is usually held in the summer, it was delayed this year to get maximum information on impact of the gasoline shortage and slower speed limits which may bring rate reductions.

AG OPINIONS — Cities cannot purchase land for industrial site development by promissory notes to be paid out of revenues from the project, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

• District clerks are liable for mysterious disappearance of child support money paid into registry of the court prior to deposit.

• When judgement on which an execution sale is based is void, a purchaser obtains no title to property.

• A contract to buy fuel for a county from the brother of a county commissioner is not necessarily void when the commissioner has no interest in fruits of the contract, direct or indirect.

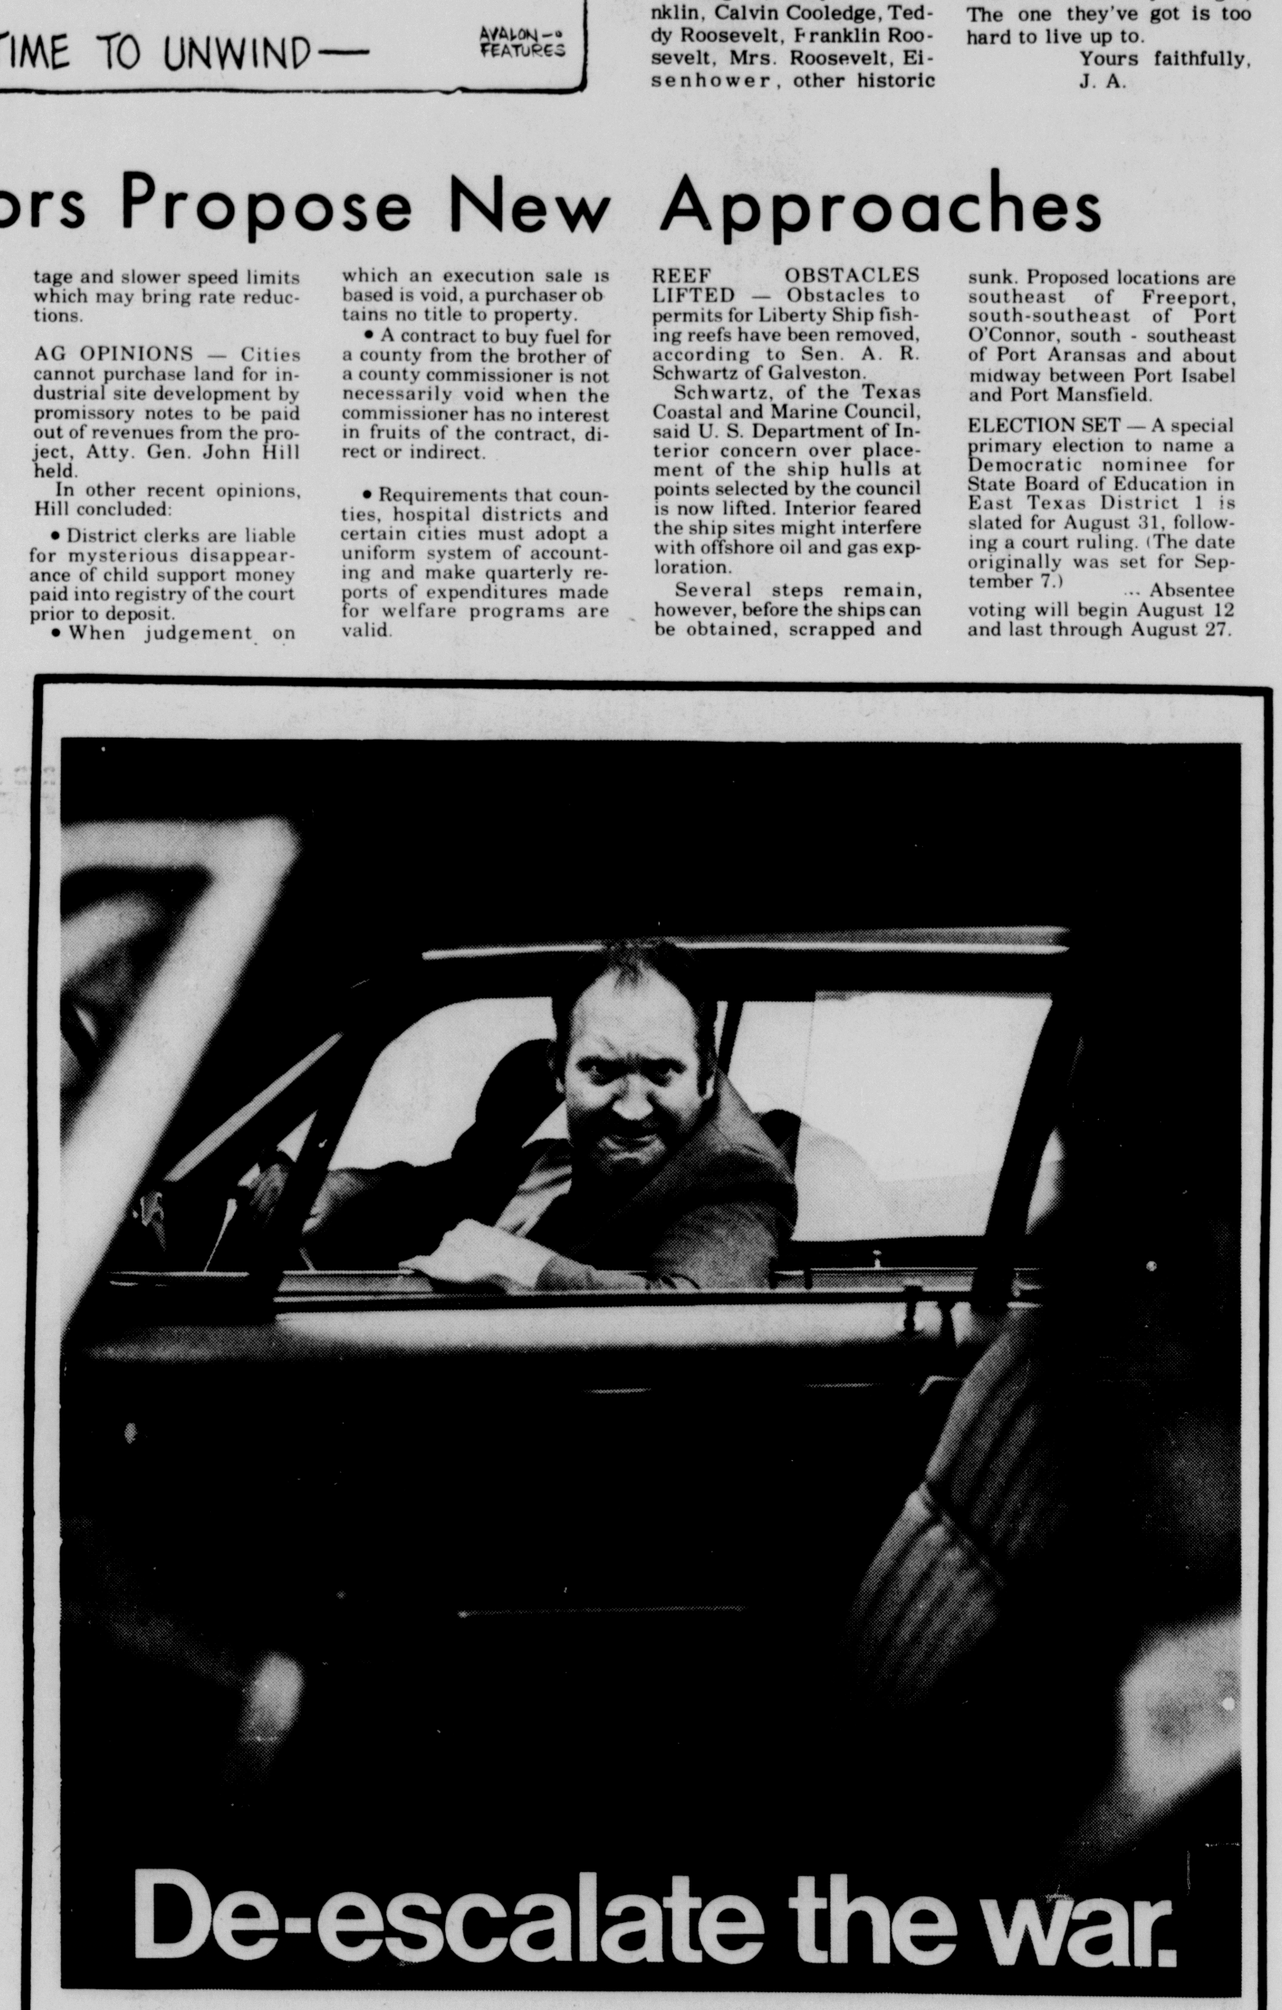
• Requirements that counties, hospital districts and certain cities must adopt a uniform system of accounting and make quarterly reports of expenditures made for welfare programs are valid.

REEF OBSTACLES LIFTED — Obstacles to permits for Liberty Ship fishing reefs have been removed, according to Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston.

Schwartz, of the Texas Coastal and Marine Council, said U. S. Department of Interior concern over placement of the ship hulls at points selected by the council is now lifted. Interior feared the ship sites might interfere with offshore oil and gas exploration.

Several steps remain, however, before the ships can be obtained, scrapped and sunk. Proposed locations are southeast of Freeport, south-southeast of Port O'Connor, south - southeast of Port Aransas and about midway between Port Isabel and Port Mansfield.

ELECTION SET — A special primary election to name a Democratic nominee for State Board of Education in East Texas District 1 is slated for August 31, following a court ruling. (The date originally was set for September 7.) ... Absentee voting will begin August 12 and last through August 27.



Believe it or not, highway hostility is not one of the necessities of life. It doesn't even have to be a fact of life.

Just because the other guy has an axe to grind doesn't mean you have to grind it with him. When another driver temporarily loses his head, don't lose yours. Don't honk back. Don't shout back. Don't drive aggressively to hold your ground.

The war of nerves and bad tempers doesn't have to go on. Your new car dealer would like to see the war end. He would like to see more peaceful, safer streets for all Americans.

So the next time the other guy tries to take out some highway hostility on you, do the one thing that will prevent an accident and might make him come to his senses. Keep your cool. Courtesy on the road can put out a lot of fires. There is an alternative to War... Peace.

Help Conserve Energy and Save Money By Planning Efficient Use of Cooking Fuel

You can participate in the national effort to conserve energy by careful planning to curtail use of precious fuel in cooking. For significant quantities of gas or electricity are consumed in preparing three meals a day.

There's no need to resort to cold suppers and campfire cookouts. Much fuel can be saved by an energy-conscious cook who considers one-pot cookery, complete oven meals and planning and cooking for two meals at once by using leftovers effectively.

Selecting recipes requiring shorter cooking time also helps. For example, not all stews need simmer for hours. Strips of beef or pork take less time than cubes. Ground beef balls also provide a savory stew in a jiffy. These recipes prove that good eating and fuel conservation are compatible, according to Reba Staggs, National Live Stock & Meat Board.

Oriental Pork

- 1 to 1½ pounds pork shoulder, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 2 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 1¼ cups water
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 small onion, minced
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon ginger
- 1½ pounds cabbage, thinly sliced (about 8 cups)
- 1½ cups ¾-inch pieces celery
- 1 small green pepper, cut in ⅛-inch strips
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons cold water

Cut each pork cube into pieces or slices ⅓ inch thick and brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add water, soy sauce and onion. Combine and stir in brown sugar, salt and ginger. Cover and cook slowly 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add cabbage, celery and green pepper and cook 10 minutes. Combine and stir in cornstarch and water and continue cooking until thickened, stirring occasionally. 4 to 6 servings.

Gourmet Veal

Veal is very young beef. The delicate flavor of this meat is one of its outstanding characteristics. Especially appropriate for subtle seasonings and special sauces, it is the choice of many gourmet chefs.

Safe, Satisfying Reducing

Weight-watchers reduce safely and happily when beef is included in their diet. The top quality protein of beef helps keep vitality and efficiency up while weight is going down. Beef also satisfies hunger longer, making it easier to get along on the fewer calories a reducing diet allows.

Cotton Growers Play 'Wait And See' Game

AUSTIN–Forward cotton contracting for the 1974 season is currently at a standstill with growers seeking 60 cents a pound and buyers willing to pay only 45, reports Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

As a result, only about five percent of Texas growers have contracted as compared to 16 percent this time a year ago.

In the Lower Rio Grande Valley, which grows six or seven percent of the state's cotton, 99 percent of the crop was contracted earlier in the year at 65-70 cents a pound. Upper Gulf Coast counties contracted some acreage at around 60 cents, and in the Winter Garden area acreage was signed up for 60-65 cents.

Since then, however, prices have dropped. Warehouses and processors are stacked up with the 1973 crop. For the time being, farmers, confronted with rising costs, and buyers, facing a drop in the market, are playing a waiting game.

On the High Plains, where around 80 percent of the state's cotton is grown, no one is even talking the subject, White said. "Compresses and warehouses are 90-120 days behind schedule in processing and shipping. When that crop starts to move, maybe then buyers will start thinking about the new crop."

White expressed some concern about High Plains' cotton, which is currently being planted. "If they don't get more rain, there could be a drop in harvest," he said.

Farm Equipment Sales Level Off

Farm equipment sales have generally leveled off due to a shortage of available equipment, says Dr. Wayne A. Hayenga, an exonomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

After two years of continued growth, unit tractor sales in the first quarter of 1974 fell slightly under the first quarter 1973 rate, with more significant declines recorded for some lines of farm machinery.

"Large increases in crop acreage and record high levels of farm income over the last two years accounted for the upsurge in farm equipment sales. Unit sales of farm tractors increased 19 per cent in 1972 and 26 per cent in 1973 after five straight years of decline," notes Hayenga.

CORRUGATED STEEL DRAINAGE PIPE

It's Strong & Easy to Install. Uses include road culverts, ditch crossovers, stock water supply lines, and driveways. Durable zinc-coated corrugated steel pipe is available in diameters 6 to 120 inches. Shipment can be made 1 to 3 days notice.

Delta Barrow Show Set For August 8-9

Swine Breeders from eight states have entered more than 200 head of boars, gilts, bred gilts and barrows in the first annual Delta Barrow Show set for August 8-9 at the Ouachita Valley Fairgrounds in West Monroe, Louisiana.

A number of Texas breeders are expected to particiapte, according to Dr. William B. Thomas, swine specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Spray Pecans For Black Aphids

The black pecan aphid is quickly becoming a big problem on pecan trees and where this is happening spraying is definaitely in order.

Most people are familiar with the yellow aphid, or at least the results of the yellow aphid if you have ever parked your car under a pecan tree in the Summer. The sticky, honey-dew material is yellow pecan aphid excretion.

The black pecan aphid is much more damaging to the tree than the yellow aphid. He injects a toxic material into the leaf while feeding causing leaf tissues to be killed and the leaves to drop. This not only damages this year pecan crop, but will keep your tree from bearing next year because of loss of stored reserves in the tree. The black pecan aphids usually build up in July and August causing premature defoliation.

Another insect that is quite damaging to the developing pecan itself is the hickory shuckworm. This insect tunnels into the shuck or hull of the developing pecan ruining the quality and causing the hull to stick to the pecan.

If you have a pecan crop it would definitely pay to protect your crop with a spray application about the second week in August and another the last of August or the first of September.

This shuckworm application will also control your black and yellow aphids. Shuckworm application for homeowners would be 6 tbsp of Guthion 12% E.C. plus 1 tsp Du-ter 50% s.p. for control of scab and foliage diseases.

COTTON MARKET

The cotton market has been fairly quiet in recent months, but that situation should change before too long, contends a marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"With dwindling mill stocks of cotton and a crop situation still highly subject to the vagaries of weather, mills should soon begin to buy new crop cotton, and that should boost prices," believes Charles K. Bakej.

Another big factor, says Baker, is the foreign mills. "They may actually start the buying spree, and when they do, domestic mills will want to get their share of the crop before prices move too high. For domestic mills, it's been a wait and see attitude, but once buying begins, the market should perk up."

Why have domestic mills stayed out of the market for so long?

There are two main reasons, points out the Texas A&M University specilaist-high interest rates and a desire to hold the price line as long as possible.

A short cotton crop for Texas and the United States is in the offing, and this should get mills in the buying mood before too long. Baker earlier estimated the U.S. cotton crop at 13 million bales and this still looks like a good projection. More than 350,000 acres of cotton have already been lost in Texas due to dry conditions, and earlier planting estimates by the U.S. Department of Agriculture can now be evaluated as some 400,000 acres too high in Texas and the other Cotton Belt states.

"With a U.S. cotton crop of 13 million bales or less, stocks for 1975 will be at a 23-year low," notes Baker.

"Farmers are holding out for higher prices for their crop as they are faced with skyrocketing production costs. The cost of producing a pound of cotton in Texas this year will probably reach 40 cents a pound, up about 9 cents from last year. This necessitates that farmers get a good price for their crop or they won't be producing for very long."

Cattle Feeding Industry Has Growth Prediction

"The Texas Cattle feeding industry is projected to reach at least 7.3 million head level by 1980. That would be 70 per cent greater than the 4.3 million head output recorded in 1972," predicts Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Uvacek says, "Demand for beef is forecasted to continue to rise steadily through 1980. This will be brought about by a larger population and a substantial increase in the per capita disposable income level, plus added demand factors such as the food stamp program.

In 1973 Texas fed cattle marketing represented 17 per cent of the national total. If Texas attains the projected 7.3 million head level by 1980 and the rest of the nation grows to the expected 38.5 million head level, the Texas share of the national output will increase to 19 per cent.

"My guess would be that Texas cattle feeding could easily reach that 7.3 million level and maybe even as much as 7.7 million head," contends Uvacek.

The trend toward larger feedlots also seems certain. With bigger lots being utilized more efficiently, fewer such facilities will be needed. The upper-end of the Texas Panhandle has recorded the major growth in feedlots, in slaughtering plants and related beef industry firms. This area is in the sorghum belt, the principal cattle-feed supply region.

One interesting facet of this feeding expansion in the High Plains of Texas is the fact that within less than a 100 mile radius from Amarillo are four other cattle feeding areas in other states. These other areas are still within easy reach of the same sorghum supplies, the same packers and the same other related industries. What then will keep cattle feeding in Texas? Probably even more important than that--Uvacek asks, "What factors will cause cattle feeding to shift out of Texas?"

He lists several important items--a state corporate tax, state imcome tax, more stringent pollution laws, imbalance in intra- versus inter - state transportation rates, attitude of Texas toward the cattle feeding business, and other state of federal regulations affecting the industry.

"Certainly these and numerous other economic and political influences will dictate whether or not Texas can retain its leadership role in cattle feeding. They may even be more important than competitive advantages.

"All Texans must not only realize that Texas makes beef, but also that beef contributes greatly to the exonomic well - being of everyone's support," emphasizes Uvacek. "It is the under lying industry that supports thousands of other related industries."

Peanut Grade Loss Studied

Southwestern peanut growers lose about $2.25 million each year from peanuts dropping in grade during storage. When and why this sizable loss occurs, and whether anything can be done to prevent it, has been the subject of much concern and speculation by the peanut industry.

Most of the loss happens in the first five days of storage, according to research findings of scientists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

"Only a small part of the grade loss during storage can be attributed to kernel shrinkage,' says Nat Person, TAES agricultural engineer at Texas A&M University. "The principal cause of this reduction was found to be the shift of the weight ratio of hulls to kernels during storage.

"This was supported by the fact that the method of drying and grading had a significant influence on the decrease in grade. Drying methods which caused high weight shifts between kernels and hulls always had high grade losses during storage. For example, mechanically dried peanuts lost six times as many percentage points in grade as field-dried," points out Person.

Historic Anthrax . . . Agricultural Miracles . . . Maize Harvest Continuing . . . Milk Production Down

THE OUTBREAK of anthrax in Falls County--which appears to be under control at this time--stimulated a little digging to find out about the disease. The Texas Department of Health, in one of its bulletins, speculated that Moses might have had anthrax in mind when he told Pharaoh that a "grievous murrain" would come on all cattle, horses, oxen and sheep in Egypt if Egyptains didn't stop oppressing the Israelities. It is known that anthrax has appeared world wide, that it will attack almost all animals, including man, but that it appears to prefer cattle and horses. Man and swine appear to have greater resistance to anthrax infection. Anthrax externally may appear to be sores or carbuncles. Internally, it may be mistaken for pneumonia or bloat in cattle. It is usually fatal to infected cattle in a very short time, and its germs may live for many months and be a source of danger in previously infested areas for years. The authorities say that anthrax should be suspected when animals die suddenly, especially in areas where the disease has been a problem previously. The great Louis Pasteur is responsible for developing a vaccine that can protect animals from anthrax.

AMONG THE miracles of agriculture are the increased yields made possible by new varieties developed in such crops as grain sorghums, rice, soybeans, etc. One of the most dramatic has been in sorghums (maize). Before 1956, yields of maize were seldom more than 1,000 pounds an acre. Then came the hybrids and yields rose to more than 2,000 pounds an acre; and eight or ten years ago, yields went to 3,000 pounds or more per acre. Now Texas experiment stations are working on twin-seed hybrids that may increase yields 10-20 per cent more. Work is being done to develop strains that are more resistant to drouth, to disease, and to insects. Production had already made grain sorghums the Number 2 crop (behind cotton) in Texas, and sorghums played a prominent part in the development of feedlots, another development in agriculture during the second half of this Century.

HARVESTING of maize is underway, or complete, all the way from the Coast through the Blacklands, as hot, dry weather allows in most places. Drouth on the High Plains delayed or prevented planting, and it appears that Texas' yields of maize this year may be below 1973. The estimate is that 6,600,000 acres were planted this year, compared to 8,100,000 last year . . . Acres in corn this year in Texas, however, is estimated at 980,000 acres, compared to 750,000 acres last year. Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service says this is the largest acreage planted to corn in Texas since 1962.

JUNE WAS Dairy Month, and milk production in Texas was 287 million pounds. That is two per cent more than in June, 1973, but five per cent less than in May, 1974. Average milk production per cow was 820 pounds during June, and that is 30 pounds above June, 1973 and 40 pounds below the average for May of this year. Price for wholesale milk for June was placed at $9.55 per hundred.

PASTURES over Texas continue to get worse as hot, dry weather continues in most places. Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service says that ranchers on the Cross Timbers, Edwards Plateau, and Low Plains started culling their herds earlier than usual. Some ranchers are having to feed their remaining stock.

THERE WERE 362,000 head of cattle and calves sold in Texas auction barns during May, which is 51 per cent below a year ago and 18 per cent below a month ago. May sheep sales were 19 per cent more than in April, reaching a total of 145,000 head. That is 37 per cent below a year ago. A total of 40,000 head of hogs were sold at auction in May, two per cent below the same time in 1973 and seven per cent below April, 1974. The number of hogs and pigs on Texas farms also decreased, falling to 930,000 head which is three per cent below 1973 and the lowest June 1 inventory for Texas since 1969. Hog farmers report they plan to farrow 58,000 sows from June through August and 53,000 during September, October, and November. That will be an increase of over four per cent over the same quarters in 1973.

M-44 Training Set At Killeen

Farmers and ranchers who missed the Milam county training meeting on use of the M-44 spring-loaded ejector which uses sodium cyanide capsules will have an additional opportunity to qualify for the program.

Nine meetings will be conducted within the 44 counties of the experimental program area. Farmers and ranchers may attend any one of the meetings to be qualified. Killeen will host a meeting August 21 at the First National Bank.

Only those individuals who participate in a training meeting will be qualified to purchase and use the M-44 and sodium cyanide capsules in the pilot program. Each participant will be issued a certificate by the Texas Department of Agriculture at the conclusion of the meeting.

Tea Honors Miss Jeannine Willie

Miss Jeannine Willie, bride-elect of James Dohnalik was honored by her aunt, Mrs. Coy C. Arledge, and her grandmother, Mrs. Mary O. Willie, with a wedding announcement tea.

The prenuptial courtesy was from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday at the Arledge home.

Receiving guests with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. E. M. Willie; her grandmother, Mrs. Mary O. Willie ; the mother of the prospective bridegroom , Mrs. John Dohnalik and his grandmother, Mrs. Frank Zarosky.

Guests registered at an antique marble top table where a framed picture of the couple and their engagement announcement were displayed. Decorating the table was an arrangement of carnations, daisies and statis in pastel shades.

Varigated spring flowers centered the tea table where appointments were of silver and crystal. The bride-elect's sisters, Miss Marilyn Willie and Miss Denise Willie served the punch and frosted cake squares.

Also in the house party were Mrs. August Dohnalik and Mrs. Edward Dohnalik, sister-in-law of the prospective groom, Miss Patricia Dohnalik, sister of the prospective groom, Danny Willie, brother of the bride-elect, Miss Lois Randolph, Mrs. Nona H. Lindsay and the bride-elect's aunts, Mrs. Rogers C. Owen, Ft. Worth and Mrs. Thomas Bullion, Taylor.

The hostess presented corsages of white, pink or yellow carnations to members of the houseparty.

The couple will be married August 24 at Sts. Cyril and Methoduis Church, Marak.

Kathryn Diane Keith of 1906 N. Washington, Cameron, is on the Special Honor List at Texas Woman's University for high scholastic achievement during the spring semester.

Mrs. Corley Selected For Honor

Mrs. Maurina Corley of Cameron has been selected for listing in Outstanding Young Women of America for 1974 according to Paul Reeder, director for the national awards program.

She is now being considered for further state and national awards. This fall, fifty-one of the young women nominated for the Outstanding Young Women of America program -- one from each state and the District of Columbia -- will be named as their state's Outstanding Young Woman of the Year. From the fifty-one state winners, the national Ten Outstanding Young Women of America for 1974 will be selected. These national winners will be presented at a special awards ceremony to be held this fall in Washington, D. C.

The purpose of the Outstanding Young Women of America program is to recognize young women between the ages of 21 and 35 for their exceptional contributions to their professions, communities and their country. Nominations for this national awards program are made by women's oganizations, churches, alumni associations, and individuals throughout the country who have firsthand knowledge of their nominees' abilities and achievements.

A complete biographical sketch of each nominee is included in the annual awards volume, "OUTSTANDING YOUNG WOMEN OF AMERICA." which contains special introductory messages from such personages as Constance B. Newman, Consumer Product Safety Commissioner; Jen Mooney, Asst. Vic-President, First National Bank of Montgomery, Ala., and Barbara Jordan , U. S. House of Representatives.

Spray Fabric Softeners Can Cause Brown Spots

COLLEGE STATION

Washday 'blues' may turn 'brown' for homemakers using aerosol--or spray--type fabirc softeners in their dryers, according to one specialist.

She's Lillian Cochran, home management specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Continued use of the softener can leave a residue in the dryer, especially at the back of the drum. This residue will build up gradually and become brown from the heat," she explained.

It also creates a stickiness and sometimes stains clothes, she continued.

If the residue is discovered in the early stages, it can be removed from the dryer with a mild cleaning powder on a damp cloth.

"But getting the brown stains out of clothes isn't easy. Rubbing them by hand using bar soap, liquid detergent or a detergent paste may help," Miss Cochran said.

The stickiness is more noticeable on the area around the door opening, on the lint screen and the lint screen holder. This causes lint to cling.

To remove it from these areas, the specialist suggested wiping them with a wet cloth. Wash the lint screen in water and then dry it to remove the residue.

"Another problem is that the thermostats may become coated with lint if the softener has been sprayed through the perforations of the door opening--the duct ring.

"If it has been sprayed through the perforations at the drum rear, the back side of the drum and other parts of the dryer may also develop a brown residue.

The specialist recommended using a liquid fabric softener in the rinse water of the washer to soften the laundry and minimize static electricity.

Buckholts Announces Free Lunch Policy

Buckholts Rural High School District has long recognized the need for helping meet the nutritional needs of its students. The school serves a well-balanced nutritious lunch each school day. The charge to students who can pay is fifty cents.

However, since some families find it difficult to pay, the school will provide these lunches free of charge to those children determined by the superintendent to be unable to pay for their lunches.

Families who feel that their children may be eligible for free lunches are urged to apply. Copies of the application for are available at the school's office.

The complete application, signed by an adult member of the family should be sent to the school office. Such applications will be reviewed promptly and within three days the family will be notified in writing as to the decision made.

All information provided on the application will be held in the strictest confidence.

SPECIAL MILK PROGRAM

We also certify that students who qualify for a free meal under this income scale will also be eligible to receive an additional one-half pint of milk free-of-charge.

PUPPIES DON'T SIT ON FENCES

But people sit on fences. And faithful puppies never question.

Our children, trusting the love and wisdom of their parents, respect even our indecision.

But the moral and religious growth of every child is deeply influenced by his parents' commitment of their own lives to God.

We have outlived the day when fathers and mothers sent their children to Sunday School without accepting their own rightful responsibilities and opportunities in the religious community.

Juvenile delinquency is the aftermath of fence-sitting!

The Church is for the family. Religious instruction and inspiration are foundations of the home. Lives—growing or mature—gain direction only with commitment.

Join the FAMILIES who worship and grow together in church.

Texas Folklife Festival Promises Good Food, Fun

Over 3,000 Texans will stage the granddaddy of festivals in San Antonio, the Texas Folklife Festival on September 12-15 to show the world how Texans have fun.

Sponsored by the UTSA Institure of Texan Cultures, the Festival sprawls over 15 acres of the Institute and HemisFair Plaza grounds.

Texas' "Biggest Block Party" is described by O. T. Baker, festival manager, in this way: "It's sorto of an informal statewide family reunion for more than 100 communities representing 26 ethnic groups who are exhibited on the floor of the Institute."

Visitors to the fete can taste the foods of 24 nations, enjoy the music and dances of a dozen ethnic groups, try their skills at games, contests and demonstrations. They can join in the fun of an "East Texas Style Singing Convention" held nightly under a Pioneer Brush Arbor, the largest in the state.

The festival will be home base for outstanding Texas characters: yarnspinners, houndsmen, oven drivers, ranchers, cowboys, rodeo producers, champion bull riders and laconic horse traders.

There will be a fun center for dils called "Barnyard Doings" where the youngsters can learn to make pioneer children's toys. They can work with hand-loom weaving, paint folk posters, or make pottery. They can play in a giant haystack, seesaw or jump rope.

Nostalgically, the festival will recall the spectrum of frontier iife with a cane and grist mill, log house raising, Indian Village and Cattle Drive Corral.

A process of making pottery learned from Texas Indians will be demonstrated at a dung-pit kiln. Visitors are welcome to help fire the kiln, toss chips into the dung pit , make and polish their own pottery, or even "grease" the pots!

Baker said groups from 19 area festivals and annual events from throughout the state will particiapte. Fifty-one artists and craftsmen will demonstrate full-time diverse skills such as bread crumb sculpture, tinsmithing, stained glass, lye soap making , caricatures and western art.

Visitors can sprawl on the grassy slopes of the Institute grounds to observe constant entertainment on seven stages. Entertainment varier from old-time fiddlers to flamenco guitarists; fron country and western groups to bluegrass, folk and jazz.

Mixing with champion polka and dulcimer bands will be sturdy German oompah and marching Irish and Scottish bagpipers.

Dancing will be a major activity with the largest stage built to accommodate ethnic folk musicians and costumed folk dancers repesenting Swedish, Greek, Polish, Irish and German-Texans. Lebanese, Mexican and Spanish-Texan folk dancers will dominate two other stages. Jewish folk dancers will perform in front of their traditional 'Sukkah," as they celebrate the most colorful of Jewish harvest festivals, the 'Sukkas,'

Already scheduled are the statewide Czech Beseda Dancers, Tiqua and Alabama-Coushatta tribal dancers, and pioneer square dancers.

Already scheduled are the statewide Czech Beseda Dancers, Tiqua and Alabama-Coushatta tribal dancers, and pioneer square dancers.

Visitors can 'eat their way around the world' at the festival. They can sample a bit of Indian jerky or fried rattlesnake steak; try the taste thrills of Alsatian pareas, Danish pastries, Japan teriyaki or such regional specialties as Gilmer yam pies and Cajun gumbo.

There will be hardy cowboy foods prepared by range cooks and served from authentic range wagons with the traditional foods of 18 additional ethnic groups, ranging from Chinese, won-ton to Negro Soul Food.

New among the fun and games of Texans at the festival is Irish hurling, a head bashing type of field hockey. Other zany events are Cajun crawfish races, Indian stickball games and a "Tomahawk throw."

New shooting demonstrations will include old musket-type rifles used by early ion shooting and fast-draw exhibitions.

Visitors can particiapte in several types of do-it-yourself events: arm wrestle with the 'Bexas County Cowards', enter a domino tournament, compete in corn shuckin' and shelling or watermelon seed spitting contests. They can also pitch horseshoes, try Belgian bowling or play English darts.

Visitors can enter an English Pub, kiss the Irish "Blarney Stone" and gawk at the largest "Pajak" in Texas--a 36' X 31' hanging mobile exhibited by Polish-Texans.

It's going to be a Texas-size party and if you enjoy fun, mark your calendar for Sepemtber 12-15 at the UTSA Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio.

Brennan Praises Job Corps

Secretary of Labor, Peter J. Brennan, spent three and one half hours at the McKinney Job Corps Center for Women in McKinney touring the Center's vocational and basic education programs.

At a news conference following lunch and a tour of the facilities, Brennan stated, "I personally like the Job Corps program because it helps young people who need help the most. It instills dignity and self respect while providing training in vocational trades - where the money and happiness are,"

"The Job Corps is not merely a training program-it is a program which actually finds jobs for participants."

Talking about the Corpswomen and the McKinney Community, Brennan continued stating, "Money is important, but it's not everything. The Center's success is a tribute to this community that has given its time and energy to the program. These girls need help to get a start and then they will take off on their own. They know they will have a meaningful job at the end of the line."

The McKinney Job Corps Center for Women, which is operated by the non-profit Texas Educational Foundation, Inc., provides twenty-eight differnet job training programs for the 620 young women in training at the Women's Center in McKinney. To date, the job training Center in McKinney has placed over 5,303 young women into a productive cycle of the economy.

Information in regard to joining the Job Corps program for young men and women ages 16-21 may be obtained from the Texas Employment Commission Office in Temple which is located at 301 West Avenue G.

Weekly Market Report

Fresh fruits and vegetables take the market spotlight this month, Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt reports.

"Peaches, plums and nectarines are the fruits of the week," the consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, added.

Other fruits worth considering include Thompson seedless grapes, bananas and pineapples.

Vegetables include watermelon, cantaloupe, cabbage, summer squash, mustard greens, carrots, okra, blackeye and purplehull peas, dry yellow onions, radishes, green onions and cucumbers.

With beef prices trending upward, Mrs. Clyatt advised consumers to watch for advertised specials on chuck steaks, and roasts.

"For economy, look to the less tender cuts of meat-watch the ads for lower prices on less popular meat cuts, which you can tenderize by marinating or slow, moist heat cooking."

Other values are ground beef and liver, she added.

"Although prices are up a bit, chicken is still a good buy, while turkey is plentiful and often bargain priced," the specialist said.

Santa Fe Acquires Kirby Co.

Santa Fe Industries, Inc. has acquired 100 per cent control of Kirby Lumber Corporation of Houston through a merger of a wholly-owned Santa Fe subsidiary and Kirby, John S. Reed, chariman and chief executive officer, announced today.

Prior to the merger Santa Fe owned about 95 per cent of Kirby's stock.

Under terms of the merger, minority shareholders who owned approximately 25,000 shares of Kirby are entitled to recieve $150 in cash share. In recent years prior to 1974, Santa Fe had been acquiring small blocks of Kirby stock at purchases prices under $100 per share, and a current appraisal by a major New York investment banking firm indicates that Kirby would now be selling at around $125 per share if it were widely held and broadly traded, Reed said.

The merger will not bring about any changes in the management of business policies of Kirby, Reed added.

Kirby Lumber Corporation owns or manages 632,000 acres of forest lands in east Texas and southwestern Louisiana. Both plywood and lumber are produced at the Kirby manufacturing complex at Silsbee Construction is now in progress on a new 160 million square foot plywood plant at Bon Wier and a new 80 million square foot per year particleboard plant at Silsbee. Bothe new plants are expected to be in production by year end. On 1973 , Kirby's net income was $6 million on revenues of $27.5 million.

77 Featuring Favorite Stars

The 77 Drive In Theatre is featuring three big-star movies this coming week, with "Billy Two Hats" on August 8, 9, and 10; "McQ" on August 10, 11, 12 and "Ash Wednesday" on August 14.

"Billy Two Hats" stars Gregory Peck as a grizzled outlaw. It also stars Desi Arnaz Jr., Jack Warden and Sian Barbara Allen.

The movie is set in the 1890s and was filmed in Israel.

John Wayne, perinnial favorite, stars in "McQ" and in the story steps out of the saddle and into the role of Lon McQ, a tough, dedicated detective who likes to play a lone hand. When his best pal on the police force is murdered he goes on a rampage and sets out to pin the act on the big city's dope king.

He defies departmental orders in a clash of wills with his superior, Eddie Albert, but eventually solves the crime. In so doing he uncovers police corruption and discovers infidelity and greed in a woman he might have loved.

The film was shot on location in Seattle, Wash.

Elizabeth Taylor enacts one of the most challenging roles of her career in the dramatic "Ash Wednesday". She had to undergo hours of makeup sessions to create the harassed, old before her time socialite who flees to Europe to regain her physical beauty. Henry Fonda plays the bored, straying husband.

"Ash Wednesday" is the first motion picture to explore the explosive and controversial subject of cosmetic surgery where restored youth is just a scalpel away. The physical and psychological transformation provides a startling story line of the aftermath of rejuvenation surgery.

Cary Grant, whose real name is Alexander Archibald Leach, has made more than 70 movies, according to World Book Encyclopedia.

Sunken Cedars Attracting Bass At Stillhouse Hollow

A Texas sportmen club's efforts to improve fishing on a local lake is highlighted in the August issue of TEXAS PARKS & WILDLIFE magazine.

An article by A. Anthony Zeiss tells how the Twin Lakes Bass Club of Killeen, under the guidance of Texas Parks and Wildfife Department inland fisheries biologist Roger McCade of Waco, developed Operation Cedar Structure for Stillhouse Hollow Reservoir.

The project called for submeging more than 100 large cedar trees in several strategic locations to encourage high bass concentrations.

Bass club members thought the project was necessary because Stillhouse Hollow Reservoir, built by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers in 1968, has been only a fair producer of bass, largely because of its structure - free bottom which makes locating fish difficult.

Plans called for bunches of 10 to 15 trees to be sunk in depths of 10 to 20 feet in areas favorable to a good fish environment. By using topographical maps, bass club members found areas deep enough to cut down on excessive light penetration, yet close enough to shallow water for fish to use as a feeding ground.

Weighted with rocks, the cedar bunches were submerged on sloping shelves, points and the outside bends of old creek channels.

By sinking cedar trees, the Central Texas bass enthusiasts improved the total environment of the lake from several standpoints. Not only will the weighted trees attract bass, but small game fish such as crappie and bream will find more cover from predator fish.

Of course, the bass are partially attracted because of the presence of the smaller fish, but this creates a mutual benefit to both the fish and the fishermen.

The bass club's daylong project was handled by 18 club members who represented 90 percent of the club's membership.

The cedar trees were donated by local landowners, and a local marine dealer provided the deck boat for hauling.

According to the article, other Texas bass clubs have collected discarded Christmas trees with which to build such fish sanctuaries, but because of the various toxic sprays on some commercial trees, the Twin Lakes Club decided to use cedars.

A February check of the sunken trees showed that most concentrations of crappie and bass in the reservoir were in and around the cedar structures, club members say they are encouraged, and they are planning cedar structures. Club members say they are encouraged, and they are planning additional structures at Stillhouse.

Cameron Captures Cen-Tex

Cameron defeated Temple, 7-4, to win the Cen-Tex Baseball League championship for the second year in a row Sunday.

Cameron put together two three-run innings as Ricky Sapp, LeRoy Doskocil, Mike Zajicek and Jeff Smitherman led the hitting attack. Each man went two for four at the plate.

John Barron limited the Temple to six hits in taking the win.

Temple scored all its runs on home runs as Charles Chapman and Bert Garcia each hit a two-run homer.

Wayne Fulton was the losing pitcher.

LL Indians Lose Bid For District

Cameron's Little League Indians lost out on their bid for a district slot when they were defeated 5-0 by Killeen Duncan Volkswagen Sunday.

The Indains won their first game against Belton, 3-2

The second game was rained out Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, and rain at Killeen Sunday moved the game from there to Temple.

Losing pitchers were Ricky Gaskey and Steve Vrazel.

Licenses Available August 16

Somewhere in the recesses of your wallet is a crumpled, soiled piece of paper which should bring back memories of crisp fall days.

It's last year's hunting license.

To replace the license which expires the last day of August, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials have already mailed one-half of some 2 1/2 million total hunting and fishing licenses for the coming year.

The new licenses will be avialable Aug. 16 at all TP- & WD Enforecment offices and bonded licenses sales deputies such as major sporting goods stores.

Fees are the same as last year: $8.75 for a combination resident hunting and fishing license, $5.25 for resident hunting, $4.25 for resident and non-resident fishing and $37.50 for a non-resident hunting license.

This year's fishing license will be valid for one year from the date of purchase.

New licenses are printed on a special paper which is resistant to tear and water something which should prove useful to both outdoorsmen and game wardens trying to decipher licenses dunked in water and otherwise roughly handled.

Know Laws For Setting Trotlines

You have to know more than how to bait a hook and how to set a line if you're going trotlining in Texas.

There are several laws which trotliners must observe. If they don't , they are subject to fines. And their trotlines can be confiscated by game wardens.

The first thing trotliners must know is that laws governing their activity vary from county to county and from one body of water to the next, so it is imperative that they check their hunting and fishing guide from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department before they even start making their equipment.

Trotline laws regulate the number and spacing of hooks and the length of the trotline. A $1 trotline tag is required for saltwater lines and no artificial baits will be allowed on saltwater lines as of Sept. 1, 1974.

A trotline is defined as a main fishing line constructed of a non-metallic material.

In regulatory counties, the following regulations apply; trotlines are lines with more than five hooks and include rubber bands lines and sail lines, all hooks at least three horizontal feet apart. All freshwater trotlines except in Kendall County and non-regulatory counties must be identified with a legible tag, constructed of a meterial as durable as the trotline, bearing the name and address of the fisherman and the date it was set out. All trotlines which remain in public waters must be redated at the expiration of each 90-day period. No lines must by set in the vicinity of any public boat dock, public bathing pier, public bathing beach or any public place commonly used as a swimming or bathing area.

Trotlines, throwlines and jug lines may not be placed in any body of water 500 acres or less lying totally within any state park or in that portion of any stream bordering a state park.

Basketball Clinic Planned At Waco

UCLA Basketball Coach John Wooden will be guest clinician for the annual Waco Basketball Coaches Clinic August 25 and 26, 1974.

Announcement of Wooden's participation was made jointly by the Sports and Recreation Committee of the Waco, Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the clinic, American Amicable Life Insurance Company, and Word Books, Publisher, of Waco.

Word Books recently published They Call Me Coach, Wooden's official autobiography, and are helping make possible his visit to Waco.

HOW DISCREET ARE YOU?

There may be a fine line between fact and tact. And the person with an obsession for discretion seldom crosses that line. The test that follows will give you a good idea of the success of your discretionary tactics with people.

1. If you're a young lady who doesn't want to see a particular young man socially and he asks you for a date, you should (A) Tell him that you have other plans for the occasion, (B) Tell him that you don't think the two of you would make a good couple, or (C) Tell him that you don't wish to see him socially?

2. When interviewing a prospective employee for a job and he doesn't have the qualifications, tell him that (A) He isn't qualified, (B) You're grateful for his interest, or (C) You'll be in touch with him at a later date?

3. If a friend of yours suddenly dies, it is best to (A) Call his family and tell them of your shock, (B) Make sure to attend the funeral, or (C) Send flowers to the home of the deceased or the chapel where services are to be held?

4. If a potential author asks you to read his manuscript for a book, which you think isn't very good, it's best that you (A) Tell him you don't think it's very good, (B) Praise his effort but say that he could do better, or (C) Tell him you like the book and express your hope for his success with it.

5. When someone you know makes a trip to Las Vegas and loses a lot of money, you should (A) Express your sympathy, (B) Say you hope he still had a good time, or (C) Tell him he was unwise to gamble?

For correct answers, see below.

ANSWERS: 1. (A) Tell him that you have other plans for the occasion. The other answers are likely to hurt him unnecessarily. 2. (B) Tell him you're grateful for his interest. Chances are, if you have described the job he would have to do, he understands that he isn't qualified. 3. (C) You should call the family and attend the funeral, if possible, but whether you can or not, sending flowers is an appropriate gesture that helps to comfort the bereaved. 4. (C) Tell him that you like the book and express your hope for his success with it. 5. (B) Say you hope that he still had a good time.

Hot Sandwich Souffle Makes Fine Follow-up To Baked Ham Dinner

The smart kitchen manager not only puts incidental leftovers to good use, but plans her meat purchases to provide them. Knowing that "planned-overs" can represent economical use of both time and money, she eyes a ham purchase as a three to four-day food investment.

The initial baked ham dinner is merely the beginning. First slices, then bits and pieces of cooked ham make a multitude of interesting entrees — casseroles, soups, salads and sandwiches.

Next time you're planning the effective utilization of a ham purchase, put the ingredients for Ham Sandwich Souffle on your market list, advises Reba Staggs, home economist of the National Live Stock & Meat Board.

Ham Sandwich Souffle

- 1½ pounds cooked smoked ham
- 12 slices sandwich bread
- 6 slices (1 ounce each) Swiss cheese
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon caraway seed
- 4 eggs
- 3 cups milk
- ½ teaspoon salt

Cut ham in slices ⅛ to ¼ inch thick. Place 6 slices bread in 13 x 9-inch utility dish. Top each slice of bread with a slice of cheese and pieces of ham. Combine mayonnaise, mustard and caraway seed and spread on remaining 6 slices bread; place, spread side down, on ham. Beat eggs, milk and salt until foamy and pour over sandwiches. Cover dish and refrigerate 2 hours. Bake uncovered in slow oven (325°F.) 1 hour. 6 servings.

FREEZER BEEF!

Bulk beef or freezer beef buyers usually buy the entire side or a forequarter or hindquarter of a beef carcass. A side is half a carcass split lengthwise from front to back. It contains both a forequarter and a hindquarter. Buying a whole side involves considerable thought—an average side is approximately 350 lbs. which will result in 240-270 lbs. of useable beef. You'll need ample freezer space to store it. If you have less storage space, maybe a forequarter or hindquarter would better fit your needs.

A forequarter is the front half of a side. It contains the rib, chuck, foreshank, brisket and plate cuts. It contains the desirable rib cuts so tender for summer broiling. It has more useable lean meat and usually costs less per pound than the hindquarter. But it also contains some of the less tender cuts such as chuck, shank, brisket and plate. Chuck cuts make up almost half the forequarter's weight. These less-tender cuts require moist-heat cooking methods for best results. The average forequarter will result in about 130-145 lbs. of beef to take home.

The hindquarter contains the short loin, sirloin, round and flank sections. It has more of the more-tender cuts and will give you more steaks and roasts. So, it will usually cost more per pound. While much of the hindquarter can be cooked with dry-heat methods, much of the round and the flank should have the moist-heat treatment. The average hindquarter will give you about 110-125 lbs. of take-home meat.

So, the forequarter is usually the most economical purchase; but more of the most tender steaks and roasts are from the hindquarter. If you want both, buy a side. Remember, however, a side, forequarter or hindquarter will also give you a considerable amount of ground beef.

For best results, large amounts of meat should be frozen before they are put in your home freezer due to the length of time which would be required to freeze them solid at home. Consider all these factors and your available storage space, and select that which best fits your family's needs. Most stores will cut, wrap and freeze freezer beef to your specifications. Just ask about this service at the meat department in our store.
